Art. 248 in 6th Edition.

I do not see how under Article 266 A M.S.R. the entire amount could be charged to the Government on the ground that less than 25% is payable by the Municipality.
The propriety of this proviso even in the case of pension is open to question. I would suggest that the question of the deletion of this proviso and making it incumbent on each Body to bear its share however small it may be, being taken up separately.

Submitted. As regards Compassionate gratuity, orders in the above case were that each body should bear its share (whatever the proportion might be).
Whether the same procedure might be adopted in respect of pensions and leave allowances and whether the provisos in Articles 248 and 377 M.S.R. respectively may be deleted is for orders.

that the local Body does not pay any portion if its share of pension or leave allowances is less than one fourth the total sum —

As regards corresponding rules in C.S.R. kindly refer to Art. 79 and note 3 to Article 45/. The latter note (which is a late addition) prescribes a limit of one rupee up to which the debit to any fund may be neglected.

view of this rule it is doubtful if the proviso in Art. 799 is being applied in practice in British India. If considered necessary this may be ascertained, or in the proviso. As the rule does not seem to work with fair results the proviso may perhaps be deleted without reference to the British Indian rule or practice.

7.12.33. The information referred to at A, may, if necessary be ascertained. without any such provision information, the proviso referred to may be deleted, imposing some minimum in terms of money. For orders.

To counter with Compliments for favour of opinion - I think the $\frac{1}{4}$ rule should be abolished but each part should bear its share whatever it may be

2. The Accountant-General, Madras, to whom a reference was made re the application of the proviso in Article 799 Civil Service Regulations in apportioning pension and leave allowances of an officer partly paid from General Revenues and partly from Local Funds, has intimated that it is being applied in practice. In the above circumstances, the existing Articles 248 and 377, Mysore Service Regulations, which have prescribed some limit for taking up the question of recovery, do not seem to require amendments as they have been framed with a view to diminution of work in the several offices, treasuries and the Audit Office. Copies of this office letter No. 1345/Pen. dated 20th February 1934 and reply No. Pen. Misc. 3-2780 dated 27th February 1934 received from the Accountant-General, Madras, are herewith sent for reference. If one-quarter is considered too high a proportion one-eighth may be fixed.

Service and spend under the Local Body about 4 or 5 years the balance being under fort.
Cases in which ^{they} spent ~~25%~~ 20 to 25 years of service under the Local Body and four or five under fort are very rare if not non-existent. The result is that the rule referred to above operates in favour of the disadvantage of Govt.

I would therefore omit it altogether. The change to the two bodies the amounts due whatever they may be irrespective of the $\frac{1}{4}$ limit but would not ignore all revenues of less than a rupee - as being petty.

The limit of 25 per cent. is only an arbitrary rule, and if, as stated by the Comptroller, its abrogation is likely to lead to increase of work in the several offices, treasuries, and the Audit Office, it would be better to reduce the minimum and fix it at 10 per cent.

Letter No. Pen.1345 dated 15th February 1934 from the Comptroller, Mysore Government, Bangalore, to the Accountant General, Madras.

I have the honor to state that in regard to the pensionable service of an officer partly paid from General Revenues and partly from Local Funds, the charge for pension and leave allowances is debited according to the Rule of Proportions. The above rule is subject to the proviso that if less than 1/4 is payable from either source, no distribution shall be made and the other source shall bear the whole charge. Vide Article 799 Civil Service Regulations. I request you to be so good as to intimate to this office whether the above rule is being applied at present in British India. The doubt has arisen on account of the fact that Note 3 to Article 45 Civil Service Regulations prescribes a limit of Re.1/- upto which the debit to any fund may be neglected.

Letter No. Pen.Mis.3-2780 dated 27th February '34 from the Accountant General, Pension Verification Section, Madras, to the Comptroller, Mysore Government, Bangalore.

With reference to your letter No. Pen.1345 dated 20th February 1934 regarding the application of the Rule of Proportions in apportioning pension and leave allowance of an officer paid partly from General revenues and partly from Local Funds which up to 1st April 1908, were treated as Incorporated, I have the honor to state that the proviso in Article 799 Civil Service Regulations, is being applied in such cases.
